

Level 3 Learning & Development Practitioner End-Point Assessment

About the End-Point assessment

Learning and development Practitioners are typically involved with identifying learning / training needs, designing / sourcing training and learning solutions, delivering and evaluating training, and working with stakeholder / business area managers. The role focus is often on the practical delivery of training. The Learning and development Practitioner will typically have expertise and competence in their specific field whether it be technical, vocational or behavioural (e.g. use of software, food preparation, working in teams). They link the learning within their area of responsibility to business objectives and performance, understanding the learning cycle and working by it. The role can be more specialist, with a focus on and requiring in-depth expertise in a specific area of Learning and development such as learning design, e-learning or digital / blended learning. Whichever of these is an area of focus; the Learning and development Practitioner is future focused, understands the business context / culture and has a good grounding across the whole training and learning cycles.
